Big Shots at the Crossroads

AP Newsfeatures.

WESTMINSTER College campus at Fulton, crossroads town in the heart of Missouri, will be the sounding board for two of the outstanding international figures March 5 when both Winston Churchill and President Truman speak there. Both will receive honorary degrees and Churchill will deliver a lecture, one of a series sponsored by a college foundation featuring important men. The idea of inviting Churchill to give one of the lectures was a "shoot the moon" project which paid off for the little college town.

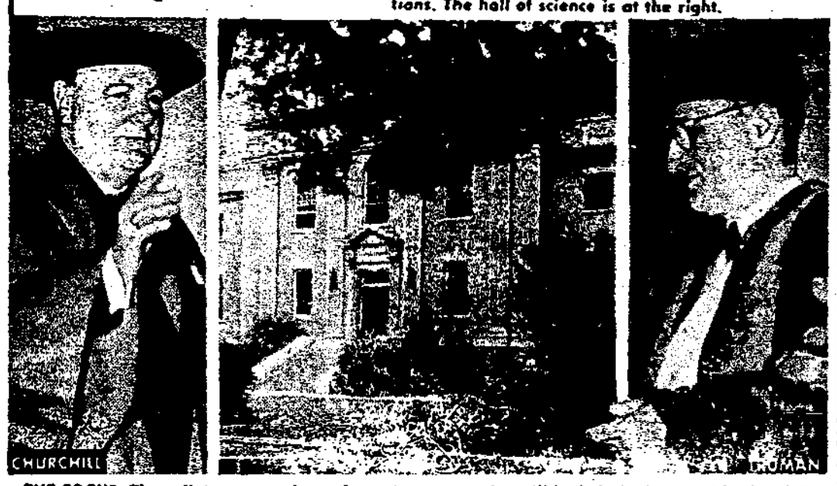
THE CAMPUS—The pillars, remains of the administration building which burned in 1909, are now a center of college traditions. The hall of science is at the right.



THE FOCUS—The college gymnasium where the ceremonies will be held is shown with Churchill and Truman in caps and gowns as they appeared when given honors elsewhere.

TRUMAN, CHURCHILL SET FOR TRIP WEST

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—Former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill will take the "Sinews of Peace" as the theme for his address in Fulton, Mo., tomorrow.

This was announced today as he and President Truman prepared to leave for the midwest after a renewed indorsement by Mr. Truman of the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan agreement.

The President described the loan as "a cornerstone in the world's structure of peace" and said the alternative is "trade warfare between nations."

He spoke at a White House ceremony a few hours before he and Churchill were due to board a special car, at 2 p. m., (EST) for the President's home state.

Churchill is expected to dwell on continued close relations between the two governments in a speech at Westminster college tomorrow afternoon. He will be introduced by the President.

Candidate To Drop Nylons on Cleveland

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 4—Nylon hose will rain on Cleveland "within a few days," promises Albert Edward Payne, Springfield industrialist, seeking the Republican nomination for Ohio governor in the May primary.

In a recent publicity stunt there, Payne dropped 150 pocketbooks, each containing a dollar bill and a note asking the finder to return the money "to prove my point that people are honest."

Reporting 80 per cent recovery, Payne said the forthcoming nylon shower from an airplane would be "a token of appreciation of the honesty of Cleveland citizens."

Where will he get the hose? "People running for governor will be very surprised to know how I accomplish difficult tasks," he replied, without elaboration.

Says Life Menaced After He Found Churchman and Singer at Love Tryst.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, March 4 — Capt. Robert A. O'Neal of the Indiana State Police said today Joseph L. Woolridge, 29-year-old Negro janitor, had made a signed statement in which he confessed the slayings of Russell Koontz and Mrs. Phyllis Coleman in an abandoned stone mill near Bloomington, Ind.

The officer said Woolridge declared in the statement that he killed Koontz in self defense after the latter threatened to kill him when he discovered the couple in an intimate embrace.

Capt. O'Neal said Woolridge made the statement in the presence of several state police officers.

Koontz, 43, was a Bloomington business man and a former Sunday school superintendent. Mrs. Coleman worked in a Bloomington creamery office and sang in the choir of the church where Koontz was superintendent.

Found In Mill

Capt. O'Neal said Woolridge told of being on a ground hog hunt last Friday and of finding Koontz and Mrs. Coleman in the stone mill.

The bodies were found in the mill late Friday night.

O'Neal said Woolridge gave this version of the slayings:

Woolridge went into the mill where he said he found Koontz and Mrs. Coleman in an embrace.

He said he watched the couple for a while and then was noticed by Koontz, who remarked, "Do you know who I am?" Woolridge said he told Koontz he knew his identity and he said Koontz then said, "You'll never live to tell."

The Negro said Koontz then lunged at him and he seized a sash weight and struck Koontz.

He then felt the man's heart and believed him to be dead. He then took the woman into a tool shed, where he tied her up.

The Negro found a piece of rope on the floor. The statement said he decided to choke her. The statement added he tightened the rope around her neck for five or 10 minutes, until she ceased to breathe.

Puts Bodies In Pit

The statement continued that he discovered a pit near the main building, cut the ropes from Koontz's body, removed a watch and chain from a pocket and rolled the body into the 10-foot deep concrete pit.

Woolridge said he carried Mrs. Coleman's body to the pit and untied the rope from Mrs. Coleman's hands and lowered the body into the pit.

Moved for Safekeeping

Woolridge was taken into custody Saturday night at Bloomington.

After making the statement, Woolridge was taken to the state reformatory at Pendelton for safekeeping pending the filing of formal charges at Bloomington.

Records of the FBI office here showed six previous arrests of Woolridge and two convictions. His first conviction was on a charge of petit larceny when he was a minor and brought him a 16-months sentence to the Indiana boy's school at Plainfield.

He was convicted later of public

Pollak Steel Plant Resumes Operations as Strike Ends

Agreement Reached Saturday Night Ending Six-Week Dispute; Other Closed Shops Report No Developments.

The Pollak Steel Plant here resumed operations this morning, ending a steelworkers' strike that started Jan. 20.

The wage agreement between company officials and the negotiating committee of local 2721 was reached shortly before 8 p. m. Saturday.

The Pollak is the second of four Marion plants originally affected by the nationwide steelworkers strike to go back to work. The Baker Wood Preserving Co. went back about two weeks ago, two days after the strike against the United States Steel Corp. was settled.

Today union headquarters here said there were no developments in negotiations with the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and the Alloy Cast Steel Co., the other local plants closed by the strike.

Terms of the Pollak agreement were not made public either by union or company officials.

A. R. Barnhard, president of the local and chairman of the negotiating committee, said there would be no statement unless a joint statement was made by the company and union.

In the Cincinnati offices of the Pollak Steel Co. A. C. Weihl, general manager when contacted this morning by telephone would say only that "an agreement had been reached in a spirit of good feeling satisfactory to both sides." He added that in the 26 years the company has had a signed contract with its Marion workers the recent strike was the first time an employe had lost a day's time because of a labor dispute.

Approximately 250 men were affected by the Pollak strike. This morning Human Knecht, general manager of the plant, reported that practically a full force reported for the day shift.

Canada Blames Reds in Public Report on Leak

By The Associated Press

OTTAWA, March 4 — Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King made public today a report on the leakage of official secrets which declared "the evidence reveals that these operations were carried on by certain members of the staff of the Soviet embassy at Ottawa under direct instructions from Moscow."

Russian agents were instructed by Moscow in August, 1945, near the end of the war in the Pacific, to obtain "information as to the transfer of American troops from Europe to the United States and the Pacific," the two-man royal investigating commission declared in a report to King

The location of headquarters of a score of United States Army division or corps, and those of the U. S. Ninth army, were sought by Col. Nicolt Zabotin, military attache of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, the announcement said.

List of Information

The report declared that Col. Zabotin had been instructed to get the following information:

1. Particulars as to the material of which the atomic bomb is composed; its technological process and drawings.

2. Details of "electronic shells

3. "Samples of uranium-235 used by the American Navy," with details as to the plant where it was produced."

4. "Location of the Brazilian infantry division (which fought in Italy) and lists of the Canadian army divisions which had returned to Canada."

Moscow announced recently that Zabotin was recalled from Ottawa last December.

The royal commission announcement named four persons "who

IRAN ASKS U. S. TO CALL REDS

Wants America To Join with Britain In Demand for Soviet Explanation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala today called on the United States to join Britain in asking Russia to explain her decision to keep Red army troops in Iran contrary to treaty obligations.

Ala told newsmen after a call at the state department that he had left this request with Secretary Byrnes.

The Iranian envoy said he realized the United States position in regard to the Iranian matter was different from that of Britain, because the agreement calling for withdrawal of troops by last Saturday was strictly a British-Russian-Iranian pact.

But Ala said that the United States did sign the 1943 declaration of Tehran, in which the Big Three affirmed their respect for the sovereignty and independence of Iran.

At London authoritative sources disclosed today that Great Britain had asked Russia to explain her refusal to withdraw troops from Iran.

A British note was said to have been dispatched to the British charge d'affaires, Frank Roberts, in Moscow for communication to the Soviet government.

The text of the note also was reported dispatched to the state department at Washington.

ARMY TO DIG INTO IMMORALITY CHARGE

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, March 4 — Maj. Gen. Miller G. White, deputy chief of staff in Europe, said tonight the Army probably will investigate immediately charges that German women were being permitted to live in bachelor quarters within the U. S. forces headquarters compound there.

He said the army was not going to raid officers quarters, but if individual cases were reported the Army probably would take "strict disciplinary action" for conduct unbecoming gentlemen.

A high officer said, without permission to use his name, that there probably were dozens of women spending one or more nights within the closely guarded enclosure which contains Army headquarters and officers and civilians billets.

Chaplain Speaks Up

A U. S. Army chaplain said the "prevalence" of immorality in Europe had been brought into the open by publication of a letter asserting German girls are allowed to "live" with American officers at the compound.

The letter, written by a British girl and published in the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said in part:

"Why should German girls be allowed to live in the compound with American officers? I know of several instances and if necessary would lead officers to men I consider to be rotten to the core.

"Maybe they have not lost anything in this war or suffered any hardship, and that is why they can forget that the Krauts they

UAW REJECTS BACK-TO-WORK VOTE PROPOSAL

Telephone Strike Deadline Due To Fall Thursday as Negotiations Fail.

By The Associated Press

Negotiations between General Motors Corp. and the striking CIO United Auto Workers were postponed at Detroit this morning until 2 p. m. Special Mediator James F. Dewey announced.

Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, said that when negotiations are resumed the corporation would be willing to talk about "anything the union wants to discuss."

Asked if the proposal for arbitration and the company's proposal for a secret vote among the strikers would be on the agenda, Anderson said "Yes, if they want to talk about it. We'll even talk about the weather if they want to."

This morning's session was set for 10:30 a. m. at which time the GM negotiators appeared. The union request for a delay was telephoned 15 minutes later, none of the UAW representatives appearing for the session.

Phone Strike Looms

The CIO United Auto Workers prepared to intensify their 104-day old strike against General Motors, as the threat of a nationwide telephone tieup Thursday continued unabated.

UAW-CIO leaders expressed disdain for a GM proposal that the union let its 175,000 idle members decide by secret ballot whether the strike should be prolonged.

Rejecting the union's plan for arbitration of the dispute, GM yesterday proposed a poll of the UAW-CIO rank and file on the corporation's offer of an 18½ cents hourly wage increase.

Union leaders, who are battling for the 19½ cents boost recommended by presidential fact finders, declared GM did not "dare" to arbitrate and termed the proposal for a back-to-work ballot an "unwarranted interference in the affairs of a democratic union."

GM Issues Stand

Claiming GM "conforms to the wage pattern of the automotive industry," the corporation asserted the "one issue" left in the dispute was whether "General Motors should grant a greater general wage increase than its competitors or more than the pattern for the country.

The union contends, that even with a 19½ cents hourly raise, compared with 16 cents already granted by Ford and 18½ cents by Chrysler, General Motors' average wage payments still would remain below that paid in plants of other members of the motor industry's "big three."

The prospect of averting a telephone tieup seemed dim after breakup early today of a negotiating session between the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and representatives of employes who handle the nation's long distance calls.

To Strike Thursday

John J. Moran, president of the Long Lines Telephone Workers, said his members will go on strike as scheduled at 6 a. m. Thursday along with 16 other groups affiliated with the Independent National Federation of Telephone Workers.

TRUMAN AIDES SPLIT OVER PAULEY BATTLE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4 — Capitol Hill advisors of President Truman appeared near victory today in an inner circle battle with some of his White House aides over presidential appointments.

Senators familiar with the struggle that has gone on between the so-called "palace guard" and legislative friends of Mr. Truman said that if Edwin W. Pauley asks withdrawal of his nomination as under secretary of the Navy, congressional lieutenants will have score a major point.

Pauley has insisted he does not intend to give up the fight. But practically all of his opponents and even some of his friends expect him to withdraw after he makes a full defense of the charges against him.

Hearings on his nomination resume Wednesday before the senate naval committee.

The Pauley appointment came to the senate under circumstances that seemingly pitted both White House advisers as Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, and George E. Allen, recently confirmed as RFC director, against administration leaders on Capitol Hill.

Friendly Greetings Cheer War Brides On Way To New Homes; Two Leave Train Here

Erie Special Enroute to Chicago Speeds 200 to Many Points in U. S.; Marion Husbands Give Welcome.

By ARTHUR B. MYERS

The friendliness of the people, the large size of newspapers and trains, and the incredible number of eggs available were impressions gained during their first 48 hours in America by English girls aboard the 11-car special coast-to-coast war bride train, which stopped in Marion for 20 minutes Sunday morning.

The train, carrying more than 200 young wives and children started Saturday afternoon in New Jersey, went through New York state and was headed for Chicago, where the cars were to be rerouted to various parts of the middle west and west coast.

The brides and children were part of the 2,374 who arrived in New York Friday aboard the Queen Mary. Leaving the train here were the wives of two Marion men, Robert W. Fick of 152 Dix avenue and Dorian Shenefield of 485 Cherry street. With Mrs. Shenefield was six-months-old Clifford Leigh Shenefield, who was born after his father left England and whom Shenefield saw for the first time yesterday.

The girls had had a hectic time since leaving England, a Red Cross representative aboard the train said. Many of them had been seasick and the haste of debarking, quarantine, and getting aboard trains had left them little time to get their breath. A birth had almost occurred aboard the train the previous night, but the young woman had been taken off the train in Jamestown, N. Y. just in time to give birth to a nine pound boy. The mother's final destination is Hollywood, Calif. About a half dozen women had reached their destinations and left the train by the time it reached Marion, according to a representative of the railroad aboard the train.

Receives Warm Welcome

The girls were eager to know about the parts of the country they were headed for and were enthusiastic over the beauty of the countryside they had seen. One girl expressed her surprise at the friendliness and universal well-wishing they had received from Americans. She had not expected a very warm welcome, she admitted. But she said, she was used to the reserve practiced by the English people and was continually surprised when strangers smiled and spoke to her.

All of the girls were surprised at the unlimited amount of eggs

St. Mary and Claridon Fight Way to Tuesday's District Quarter-Finals

Marion Co. Foes May Clash In Finals If Luck Holds

Irish To Battle Magnetic Springs; Champs To Meet Cardington; Pleasant Loses To Marysville.

By JIM DARBY

St. Mary's Irish and county league champion Claridon moved one step closer to a rendezvous in the district finals as they eliminated their opponents Saturday night at Westerville while Pleasant faltered before Marysville 47 to 32. The Irish presented London a 54 to 34 setback and the Claridon boys hung a 31 to 29 knockout on Lancaster St. Mary. Both Marion county teams play Tuesday night.

London jumped off to a 4-0 early lead but after that brief flurry, the Irish kept the game well under control. Winterstellar and Dunn combined to give St Mary a 13-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. Winterstellar finished the match with 18 points followed by Dunn with 10.

Reserves Get Chance

The second and third quarters were nip and tuck affairs with London getting the short end of the by play. Coach Irvin gave the reserves a chance in the final frame and Bray, Schuler, Baldauf, Norris and Burke gave a good account of themselves.

Jim and Gene Ruth were the heavy artillery for Claridon as the league leaders took a 31-29 decision from Lancaster St. Mary. The two brothers scored all the field goals marked up to Claridon.

Claridon took an early 11 to 1 lead then blew it wide open and had to fight to tie the score at 15 all as the first half ended. The third quarter saw the lead change hands three times with the score tied four times. In the fourth quarter Claridon went ahead and stayed there.

Marion county's second place team, Pleasant, dropped out of the running as Marysville handed them a 47 to 32 ticket home. The Townshippers held a 7 to 2 lead in the first quarter but let it slip and never regained their form. They put up a battle during the first half but collapsed in the second and trailed throughout the game. Pleasant was the county's last representative in the lower bracket.

Magnetic Looks Tough

In a game whose score was tied four times, Magnetic Springs whipped Columbus Rosary 28-23 to meet St. Mary in the quarter finals Tuesday. Claridon's quarter final opponent, Cardington, put on the best match of the evening as Bill Yake came up with a one handed push shot in the last 45 seconds to beat Mt. Gilead 25-24. The score was tied six times before the end of the third quarter.

In the other lower bracket games at Westerville Grove City whipped Danville 30-16, Bremen put Millersport out of business 46-41 and Worthington pulled a 31-30 photo-finish over Columbus University.

Tuesday night the Irish and Magnetic Springs will clash at 7:30 and Claridon will battle Cardington at 8:30. If the two Marion county teams win they will meet in the finals Saturday with the survivor going to the regional tournament.

Magnetic may be tough for the Irish, having beaten both Richwood and Marysville, while St. Mary managed to win and lose to each during the season.

187 SCHOOLS REMAIN IN OHIO CAGE RACE

Original Field of 1,150 To Drop To 32 This Week.

By HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—The tournament pathway was strewn with wrecked championship hopes today as 187 teams remained in the battle for Ohio's Class A and B high school basketball titles.

The big field, originally numbering approximately 1,150 teams, will be pared to 16 outfits in each class this week.

Still riding high after the first week of sectional and district tournament competition were the undefeated teams in Class A and six such quintets in Class B.

Already out of Class A competition were Canton Township, Norwalk, and Chillicothe which had perfect regular seasons.

Unbeaten Middletown and Hamilton Catholic, both boasting perfect records, moved another step toward a possible clash in the district tournament at Dayton.

The unbeaten teams still in the race for the Class B Crown are Northridge's defending champions, Strasburg, Copley, Waynesburg, Attica and New Knoxville. Attica whipped Lykens Saturday night, 44 to 38, and Strasburg thumped Berlin, 38 to 33.

Only loser of last year's Class B final foursome in the first week of filing, was Ashville which lost its first start to Marion St. Mary.

GALION TOPS KENTON IN TOURNEY 53-46

Will Battle Findlay Friday in Semi-Finals.

Special to The Star

KENTON, March 4—Galion cagers humbled Kenton 53 to 46 Saturday night at Kenton to knock their way into the class A semi-finals against Findlay, Friday, March 8.

Findlay breezed through to a 56 to 31 win over Lima Central in the second game of the evening.

Friday night Wapakoneta and Lima South will play the upper bracket semi-finals at 7:30 with the Galion-Findlay match scheduled for 8:45. The winners will meet Saturday at 8 with the championship at stake.

They Don't Like This on West Point Campus

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Va.—Allison T. (Pooley) Hubert, former Alabama grid ace and now head football coach at Virginia Military Institute, tells this one on himself.

It seems that Hubert got into a football discussion with an Army officer, who finally got around to asking what team he played on.

"Alabama," Hubert returned. "And what team did you play on?"

"West Point Military Academy," the officer replied.

"I see," drawled Hubert, "one of those prep school outfits...."

The Army officer, Hubert added—hesitantly—was Gen. Henry H. Arnold.

Sandusky's Swimmers Win First 1946 Title

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—Sandusky is Ohio's first 1946 high school sports champion.

Scoring in five of eight events, the Erie county boys grabbed off the state swimming crown here Saturday by a two-point margin over Canton McKinley, the 1945 champ.

The new champions took only one first place—in the 150-yard medley relay—but they picked up enough other point places to tally 25 points to 23 for McKinley.

State, Akron, Wittenberg, B-G Split up Ohio's Cage Honors

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 3—Bowling Green Ohio State, Wittenberg and Akron today hold all of Ohio's 1946 college basketball laurels.

And still more glory is possible for Bowling Green and Ohio State.

The Bee Gees, topping all teams in the state on a won and lost percentage basis, will compete in the National invitational tournament at New York's Madison Square Garden. And Ohio State will represent District Four in the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association's annual tournament.

Both Bowling Green and Ohio State will be making their third appearance in as many years in those events but they're both seeking their first national titles.

Akron and Wittenberg finished in a tie for the Ohio conference championship by virtue of Baldwin-Wallace's thrilling one-point victory over the Zippers last week. The Zips and the Lutherans each won 11 games and lost two in conference competition.

Only a half dozen games, exclusive of the tournament appearances for Ohio State and Bowling Green, remain on the season's schedule.

Training Camp Highlights

Frankie Baumholtz, Ex-Ohio U. Star, May Be Reds' Leadoff Slugger, Says Deacon Bill.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 4—The Cincinnati Reds' training season won't be a week old until tomorrow, but Manager Bill McKechnie believes he has found his lead-off man in Frank Baumholtz, the former Ohio university basketball great who starred for two seasons with Mickey Cochrane's nine at Great Lakes naval station.

"If Baumholtz makes the grade," said the Deacon yesterday as the Reds took a holiday, "He'll fit in the batting order as a leading man. His speed, of course, can be utilized in center field, which means that Mike McCormick and Dain Clay will have to battle it out with Hank Sauer.

Lou Denies Charge

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Louis "The Mad Russian" Novikoff reported for his first practice session with the Philadelphia Phillies and denied he was a character. "On the field I am all serious," he said, "Off the field I do not object to a little clowning. It is good to laugh now and then."

Harder Looks Good

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Mel Harder, dean of the Cleveland Indians' hurling staff, looked best in Sunday's nine-inning intrasquad contest, tasing his three-inning chore in stride and allowing only two hits. But he, Chubby Dean and Ray Poat were on the losing side, the latter being charged with the 4-2 loss. Ray Mack's eighth inning single broke a 2-2 tie.

Williams Recovers

SARASOTA, Fla.—Ted Williams was back in uniform today after a cold which kept him bedded for two days. He hit a 400-foot drive over the right field wall in batting practice but grounded out as a pinch hitter in the intrasquad game.

Rizzuto Has Aches

BALBOA, C. Z. — Little Scooter Rizzuto, the New York Yankees' flashy shortstop, was under doctor's orders today to rest "for at least a few more days." Rizzuto, recently discharged from the Navy after a three year hitch, was forced to leave Thursday's game due to a stomach disorder.

Rookies Please Boudreau

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland said he was particularly pleased with the hitting of rookie outfielders Cliff Mapes, Gene Woodling, Ted Sepkowski and Jack Ward in the intra-squad game won by the Blues 9-3 over the Orange team yesterday. Five regulars, including holdouts Frank Hayes and Mickey Rocco, failed to report by the March 1 deadline.

Connie Is Hopeful

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Connie Mack is anticipating the pitching possibilities of Herman Besse, latest addition to the Philadelphia Athletics. Mack announced Besse was out of the Army and would report for training shortly.

York Out in Cold

SARASOTA, Fla. — Although Rudy York said yesterday he was "virtually signed," the slugging first sacker was still outside the Boston Red Sox fold today following a telephone conversation with General Manager Eddie Collins.

Y-INDUS WINS TWO, RUNS STRING TO 29

7-Man Squad Carries Load; Mansfield Due Next.

A tired but determined bunch of Y-Indus players added two more games to their victory string Saturday night at the Y. With sickness and business cutting down the personnel, seven players carried the load for the twin bill.

Both games were fast with plenty of scoring. In the first game the scoring was fairly even with Garver running the highest total with 19. In the second game Mulvaine and Roseberry were high men for the locals.

Next Saturday night the locals will seek victory No. 30 over Mansfield Tire and Rubber at 8. This team boasts the best record in Mansfield.

Public Officials Shine As State Bowling Meet Opens

Chief Marks and Sheriff Retterer Among Dignitaries Setting Off Inter-City Pin Event.

Twelve sets of new pins crashed down simultaneously in polished alleys, the key to the city was presented, welcoming speeches were made, and 160 bowlers from Marion and 14 other Ohio communities started off the 35th annual men's inter-city bowling tournament at the Palace Recreation alleys Saturday night.

Chief of Police Marks, acting for Mayor Bowler, who was unable to attend because of illness, presented the key to Marion to A. M. Pollock of Lorain, president of the Inter-City Bowling association, and assured the bowlers of a warm welcome before scores of spectators.

M. D. Metz, secretary of the Marion Bowling association, was master of ceremonies, introducing Chief Marks and other officials. Among those introduced were A. A. Winterstellar of Sandusky, honorary president and founder of the association, Ralph J. Roesch of Sandusky, secretary, Sheriff Retterer, and Robert E. White, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The final ceremony before hostilities commenced was the bowling of a single ball down each of nine alleys. The nine bowlers were Chief Marks, Sheriff Retterer, Winterstellar, Roech, White, Delmas Redding, secretary of the Marion Steam Shovel league, Frank McRill secretary of the Osgood league, A. C. Peoples, secretary of the Elks league and Ed Cheney, secretary of the Home league. Some strikes and only one gutter ball were bowled.

OHIO'S BROWN MAY GET G.O.P. POSITION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4 — House Republicans have narrowed their list of men under consideration for national chairman to two of their colleagues — one from Ohio and one from Tennessee.

A successor to Herbert Brownell Jr. is to be selected April 1, Party lawmakers figure that with congressional elections upcoming this fall the next Republican chairman should have a congressional background.

Reps. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, in his fourth term, with a background of having been a country newspaper publisher, lieutenant governor and secretary of state of Ohio, and B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, a lawyer-banker-teacher-legislator and veteran of the first World war now in his 13th term, are the two under consideration.

Brown is opposed by some because he hails from a state which may have a Republican presidential aspirant in 1948 — John W Bricker.

Both are known to be at least tentatively receptive to the chairmanship, although house leaders say the situation "will not jell" for another week or so.

An offering of $27.25 for "music in hospitals" was received following the service at the church doors. Young people attending a regional youth meeting of the church were present at the vesper service as a group.

Miss Ethel Faye Locker was soloist and Miss Grace Cooper, organist, the host church choir sang, and Rev Claire T. Crenshaw, rector of St Paul's, spoke on church music. # STANDARD OIL LISTS EARNINGS FOR YEAR

CLEVELAND, O., March 4 — Earnings of The Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) for 1945, before a special charge for accelerated amortization, were $8,187,423, compared with a similar figure of $8,244,014 for 1944, according to the company's annual report to shareholders made public today.

A special charge of $4,474,262 for accelerated amortization of war emergency facilities was made in 1945, leaving a net income for 1945 after all deductions of $3,713,161. This compares with net income for 1944 of $8,744,014, after a special charge of $1,500,000.

The special charge of $4,474,262 in 1945 completes the full amortization of facilities, costing $13,308,340, certified by the government as necessary in the interest of national defense during the emergency period. Practically all these facilities, the report states, continue to be useful in the company's operations.

After deducting preferred dividends, net income applicable to the common stock was equivalent to $1.10 per share on the 2,676,384 shares of $10 par value common outstanding at Dec. 31, 1945, as compared to $7.07 per share on the 807,575 shares of $25 par value common outstanding at the end of the previous year.

Gross operating income for 1945 (excluding exchange sales of crude oil) totaled $124,809,150 compared to $129,297,053 for 1944.

With the discontinuance of military censorship, the report revealed for the first time totals of the company's production of aviation gasoline and components during the war years. Sohio production of aviation gasoline, according to the report, jumped from 1,155,400 gallons in 1941 to a peak of 81,338,600 in 1944 — and in addition that part of the 100-octane gasoline produced by other refiners from Sohio components rose from 6,471,000 gallons in 1942 to a high of 32,746,000 in 1944.

STOCKS GIVE GROUND IN TODAY'S TRADING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4 — Stocks, with a few exceptions, continued to give ground in today's market.

Comforting to bullish forces was the lack of selling pressure from the start, with the ticker tape frequently at a standstill. Losses, ranging from fractions to 3 points or so, were reduced here and there near the fourth hour.

Brokers attributed the dearth of stamina partly to persistent fears for earnings as the result of strikes and wage-price policies.

indecency at Greencastle and received a two-month jail sentence.

Woolridge is married and has two children.

The statement said Woolridge gagged Koontz with Mrs. Coleman's slip after striking him. He also bound Koontz. Capt. O'Neal said the slip and a girdle evidently belonging to Mrs. Coleman were found in the mill.

Prosecutor's Story

Prosecutor Robert McCrae related at Bloomington this sequence of events:

On Saturday police obtained casts of boot prints made beside the pit and 20 feet away.

An automobile overturned Saturday night on Beanblossom road, west of here, and a farmer noticed that footprints of one of two Negro brothers in the car resembled the prints at the stone mill. A pair of boots with treads resembling the prints later was found in the Negro's home.

Sheriff Albert H. Skirvin brought the brothers to the Monroe county jail for questioning. One related he was hunting birds, and groundhogs Friday in the area of the stone mill. He said he met another hunter there.

The sheriff found the other hunter, who told of meeting the Negro about a mile from the mill, comparing with him the sights on their guns, and then parting. Both hunters said they didn't go to the mill.

Were in Church Work

While curious thousands trumped around around the old mill yesterday, regular Sunday services were held at the Clear Creek Christian church where the 43-year-old Koontz had been Sunday school superintendent.

Both he and Mrs. Coleman, 32-year-old office girl, had sung in choir.

Prosecutor McCrea disclosed both Koontz and Mrs. Coleman were carrying letters from each other when their bound and gagged bodies were found.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

NOEL'S face fairly glowed with pleasure at the exclamations of the boys. He has a most charming smile when he is in good humor, and he palpably was at peace with himself and the world in this distribution of gifts.

As for Mary, I guessed that she did not know of whom she was more proud, her husband for his painstaking work and generosity, or her brother and her cousin for the clever act of grateful enthusiasm which they were staging.

For Roderick and Junior were "spreading themselves" in exclamations of approval and earnest thanks to Noel and Mary for their largesse. Noel took it all at face value, but Mary, of course, knew what a good show the boys were putting on, and the mirthful wink she gave me across the bent heads of the three, told me how much her volatile, laughter-loving nature was enjoying the picture.

But she knew the danger of stretching the scene out. Noel is exceedingly keen, and both Mary and I knew that an inadvertent word revealing that the boys already had workable duplicates of the articles Noel had bought would be dynamite. So I was not surprised when she rose with decision, while Roderick and Junior were still exclaiming with plausible delight over their gifts.

"We really must get back, Noel," she said, as he got to his feet.

Roderick Teases

"Those million things to do?" Roderick teased.

"Exactly, darling," she tossed back at him.

Then she turned to me.

"I have a message for you, although I suppose Uncle Dicky has it also," she said. "But I'll get it off my chest now. My regal mother-in-law is rounding up the clan for dinner tonight. She said you weren't at the apartment and your husband had said he thought you were out of the hotel doing errands."

"He was right," I said, salving my conscience with the subterfuge that I was not specifying in what particular Dicky was correct. "He probably did not think of telephoning me here, for he probably is expecting me back at the apartment at any minute."

"Then I would advise you to lose no time getting there," Mary said sapiently, and waved an impudent hand at her husband.

Must Make Tracks

"These men!" she said. "But I haven't time to tell 'em off now. Noel and I must make tracks back to our little nest in the wilds of the Lansfield. But you had better get in touch with Her Majesty. She was awfully anxious to know about dinner."

"I'm afraid I'll have to tell her that I can't possibly make a dinner engagement," I said. "You see Father virtually promised me that I wouldn't have to leave for the hideaway and the farmhouse before this evening, but he is likely to summon me at any time after sundown, and of course I must be ready to start at an hour's notice—probably less than that."

"Considerably less," she amended with a wry smile, "as you know much better than I do. But that's all the more reason for flagging my mamma-in-law as soon as possible. She's probably having a pow-wow with the Lansfield chef right now."

"I'll telephone her immediately," I said, and Mary planted a swift kiss near my ear and departed forthwith with Noel at her side.

Boys Have A Problem

But the instant the door closed behind them, Junior and Roderick faced me with a problem which I knew held priority over even a call to Olga.

"Mums, whatever are we going to do with all this stuff?" he asked. "Suppose Granzie or Faith should happen in here while the place looks like a gift shop? We'd never be able to explain things."

"I know," I said, "and I'll attend to it before I do anything else. First, are your suitcases empty?"

"Sure thing!" my son responded. "The first thing we did when we came in was to empty our suitcases and set up housekeeping. It made us feel as if we really were at home in the hotel. But, Mums, we never can take those things home in our suitcases. We won't have room for anything else!"

Drink Problem

WHAT confuses many people is why do people use alcohol beverages to excess?

Well, there are many causes. Some of these people are suffering from severe mental disturbances which require the attention of a specialist in diseases of the nervous system, that is, a psychiatrist.

But, according to Dr. Howard W. Haggard of Yale University, the majority of those who drink to excess are normal human beings whose conditions can be controlled by sympathetic treatment. It is his opinion that these persons should be treated by the physician.

The first part of the treatment is to establish the proper feeling of confidence between the patient and the doctor. The doctor cannot be pessimistic about the outlook. It must be his effort not only to build in the patient the desire to be cured, but also the belief that cure is possible. If there is any lack of confidence, the patient will react badly to it.

Persons who use alcoholic beverages to excess are called alcoholics. A true alcoholic, according to Dr. Haggard, can abstain from drinking for a time, but he cannot be moderate in his drinking. Dr. Haggard therefore suggests that, in determining as to whether or not the patient realy is an alcoholic, the patient limit himself to two drinks a day for a time. If he can do this, he is not really a true alcoholic.

Alcoholism may occur as a result of certain mental disturbances, one of which is known as a maniac-depressive psychosis. Persons with this condition, drink at interval, with period in between when they abtain. Steady and wild drinking is suggestive of a mental condition known as schizophrenia.

The great majority of drinkers, as mentioned above, are not of this type. They are persons who drink excessively because of troubles, worries and problems which they seem unable to solve or to meet in the proper manner.

In some cases a cure may be brought about by arousing a fear in the patient's mind by explaining to him the rapid deterioration which may occur from the abuse of alcohol. Sometimes enough resentment may be aroused in his mind against his enslavement to alcohol that he will exert enough effort to break the habit.

Once the desire to be free of the habit is great enough, some form of faith healing, according to Dr. Haggard will help complete the treatment. The patient may respond to a rational explanation of what the habit is doing to him.

Sometimes by the administration of certain drugs which produce sickness of the stomach and vomiting, an actual distaste for alcoholic beverages may be aroused but this only lasts a short time. If possible, the services of a specialist in disease of the nervous system should be secured and such organizations as Alcoholics Anonymous have helped many cases.

Hitler Half-Brother Fed Up with Hated Name

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

HAMBURG, Germany — Adolf Hitler's half-brother, Alois, unable to resume business at his old Berlin wineshop, frankly admits that he has "had enough of the name Hitler."

Rheumatic, 64-year-old Alois—who changed his name from Hitler to Hiller in the Hamburg courts three months ago—said in an interview he wanted only to go back to his Berlin shop, but added:

"I'm told I can't get my place back. A Jew and a concentration camp victim are living there."

Bearing a resemblance to the fuehrer in both stature and profile, the brush-moustached, bespectacled Alois professed a profound dislike for Adolf. He said this dislike stemmed from childhood, when Adolf, pampered by Alois' stepmother, was allowed to take out his outbursts of rage on his half-brother.

"I've had enough of the name Hitler—the fact that my father was also Adolf's father should not be held against me," he said, banging in demonstrative Hitler style on the table with his fist.

Hitler Is Real Name

He said Der Fuehrer's real name was Hitler and not Schickelgruber. He frankly explained in English learned while waiting on tables seven years in London restaurants:

ADOLF HITLER
Name Never Schickelgruber

"Our father was an Austrian customs officer. He married my mother after I was born. Under the existing law, I took my mother's name, Schickelgruber, until her marriage, then took my father's name of Hitler."

Alois said his mother died two years later, and his 42-year-old father then obtained special legal permission to wed his cousin, who was 17 years younger. He said they had three children, all of whom died. The fourth and last child was Adolf, born at Braunau on the Bavarian-Austrian border, where his father was stationed as a customs official.

"I was just like the fifth wheel of an auto," Alois recalled. "My stepmother ignored me and babied Adolf, who was headstrong, temperamental and even at that age had explosions of rage.

Blew Up As Child

"I never forgot when he was five. He received some stone building blocks for Christmas and couldn't figure them out. I was 12 then, and I tried to show him how to build a house. But he began crying and, in a fit of temper, threw the blocks at my face. He was coddled until he quit crying, and I was bawled out for butting in."

Apparently fed up, Alois decided to leave home at the age of 14 and became a busboy in Linz, embarking on a catering career that led him to London and Paris.

Alois continued:

"I've seen Adolf only once since I left home, and that was at some affair at Tempelhof airdrome where I was just one of thousands.

"Adolf seemed ashamed of having a relation who had a wineshop and forbade his senior officers' entering the place. That was all right with me, for I certainly didn't want anything to do with Nazis."

Alois said his place of business had a sign which merely said, "Aloises."

"I tried to keep the name of Hitler as far removed from business as I could," he said.

"I left Berlin on April 15, 1945, and fled to Hamburg. All I know about Adolf's death is what I've read in the newspapers. I am a tired old man who is fed up with being questioned about Hitler. My only child, 20-year-old Cpl. Heinz Hitler of the German army, has been missing in Russia since 1942."

Most of your Army pay is clear savings. Food, shelter, clothes, medical and dental care are all provided. Insurance, amusements and other incidentals cost far less. You're way ahead of the average civilian.

2. TRAINING

It takes first-class technical training to handle the Army's modern equipment. That's why you get thorough instruction in one or more of 200 skills. The best trade schools in the world fit you for a future career.

3. TRAVEL

If you join for 3 years you can choose not only the overseas theater to which you wish to go, but also your arm or branch of service.

4. STEADY WORK

There's no uncertainty about your Army job. No lay-offs. You work eleven months a year and get twelve months' pay, with a 30-day paid vacation every year.

5. ADVANCEMENT

The new Army needs a high percentage of technical experts. If you have the ability, you can earn quick promotion to higher grades, with more pay. And there's always an opportunity for qualified men to become candidates for officers' training.

6. CARE OF DEPENDENTS

The Army pays liberal family allowances for dependents of men who enlist before July 1, 1946. Army service need not interfere with a happy married life.

7. THE FUTURE

Every young man who joins the Army before October 6, 1946, is entitled, under the GI Bill of Rights, to further education after discharge. After a 3-year enlistment, for example, you can have a full course in college, trade or business school, with tuition up to $500 per ordinary school year paid by the Government, as well as $65 a month for living expenses—$90 a month if you are married.

8. SECURITY

If you choose to stay in the Army, you can retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service, and so on up to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. As a civilian you would have to pay $84 a month for annuities to provide such a retirement fund.

9. START NOW

You can take this job immediately if you are 17 to 34 years of age, and physically and mentally fit. Enlistments may be for 1½, 2 or 3 years. Find out more about one of the world's best jobs from your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station today!

WOMEN 38 to 52 YRS. OLD

Were Never Meant To Suffer Like This!

Here's a tip for women who suffer hot flashes, nervous tension —due to "middle-age"

If the functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women makes you suffer from hot flashes, feel tired, "dragged-out," nervous, a bit blue at times—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

Pinkham's Compound is one of the best known medicines you can buy for this purpose.

Taken regularly—this great medicine helps build up resistance against such "middle-age" distress. Pinkham's Compound has proved that some of the happiest days of some women's lives can often be during their '40's. Also an effective stomachic tonic!

How Would You Like to Live in the "Good Old Days"?

★ Back in grandfather's time, during the final quarter of the last century, things were quite different. There were no movies, no airplanes, no automobiles, few bathrooms, practically no efficient electrical appliances. If you contracted diabetes or pernicious anemia, your days were numbered. Your blood just "changed to sugar" in the former, "to water" in the latter.

There was little protection against virulent epidemics. Smallpox vaccine was the only biological on the market. When diphtheria or typhoid ravaged a community, there was nothing to do but wait it out in hope and dread.

Yes, a return to the "good old days" would mean, among other things, the sacrifice of the major portion of the contribution of medicine and pharmacy to your health and well-being.

It is naturally presumed that the men who would administer the law would be heartily in sympathy with this noble idea of protecting the veterans and other people.

I think it is a fair assumption also to say the Administrator's own past record in this respect ought to be pretty free from the contamination of real estate speculation. Well, I'm wondering. I have it from pretty good authority —in fact I am pretty sure that Volume DB-1608, page 368 dated 7-15-36 and Volume DB-1688, page 159 dated 9-28-38 and Volume DB-1686, page 272 also dated 9-28-38 and Volume DB-2084, page 275 as recorded 2-7-46 of the Records of the Clerk of Courts of Jefferson County, Kentucky, will reveal that there was transferred to Wilson W. Wyatt, a home at 81 Valley Road, Louisville, Kentucky, and for which the records will show $10,000 had been paid. The records also will show that this same home was sold for $25,000 and the sale for same recorded on February 7, 1946, after Mr. Wyatt had been appointed by the President as head of the Federal Housing Agency.

Moral Implications

If this is true I'm just a little troubled about some of the moral implications that would be involved in the enforcement of this particular provision in the Patman Bill relating to speculation. I'm thinking, for example, of a situation like this: Suppose a veteran buys a new home under the plan, for which he pays, say, $5,000, and sells it a year later for $5,050, or a 1 per cent more than he paid for it. If he were caught by the Housing Czar doing this he would be prosecuted, made to pay a fine and possibly also have to serve in prison. Yet the man who would do the prosecuting himself indulged, and after his appointment as Housing Czar, in speculation on his own home to the extent of upping the price almost 20 per cent annually for 8 years. To be exact, Mr. Wyatt made 150% profit on his house after having held it only 8 years.

I really think this is a serious question. Suppose the Patman Bill passes, just what would constitute the veteran's crime if he sold a house at a price higher than that which he paid. If caught by the building czar, Mr. Wilson Wyatt, he would be branded as a criminal and subjected to the rigors of a penalty, or imprisonment in the penitentiary, and possibly both. Yet is this same Mr. Wilson Wyatt who himself bought a home for $10,000, sold it for $25,000, making a profit of $15,000 or 150 per cent and goes scot free.

What I want to know is this. Does the law constitute a certain deed a crime or does the nature of the deed constitute the crime?

Programs on the Air

NBC's "bad widdie boy," Red Skelton, has one of show business' most interesting backgrounds. His experience includes medicine show, stock, showboats, burlesque, films and radio.

Born in Vincennes, Ind., on July 18, 1913, the son of Joseph Skelton, famous circus clown, Red's humor seemed to be his heritage from the father who died just before he was born. His first job was with a medicine show when he was only 10. Next year, it was Clarence Stout's Minstrels; at 14 he joined Hittner's Showboat, followed by a clown act with Hagenback and Wallace. At 16, he was burlesque's youngest comedian.

Your Insurance Should Protect Your Family . . .

Most men buy life insurance to provide an estate for their families, and we agree heartily with that idea. It is the one certain way to create an estate quickly.

Of course, there may be expenses of an illness, and there certainly would be burial cost if the reason for creating that estate should become an actuality. One way to keep a part of those costs within your own ideas of what they should be is through advance arrangements with your funeral director.

We welcome such arrangements at the Hughes Funeral Home. We have no desire that funeral costs ever should exceed what any patron is willing to pay. If you would like to discuss the matter, you will incur no obligation whatever and you will be welcome to any information you desire about funeral service and its cost.

See For Yourself Exactly What the Cost Will Be

We make no mystery of price. Quite the contrary: we mark prices in plain figures; you have only to look in order to see what the complete service will cost, including all ordinary essentials.

Since price is an important factor, give this information the consideration it deserves if you are ever confronted with the necessity for selecting and calling a funeral director. Price is never in doubt when we are called.

A Fine Point of Distinction

WHATEVER fancies may have filled the minds of those who wanted higher wages and fixed prices, all present facts point to the same conclusion: that prices and wages are going up together and will cancel each other. Senator Barkley, administration leader in the senate, thinks the price increase will run as high as 20 per cent. American Federation of Labor is beginning to doubt there is any net advantage to labor in wage increases that are offset by higher prices.

A fine point of distinction between higher wages and higher prices and lower purchasing power of dollars is beginning to come out of the Washington fumble with wage and price increases. Up to a certain point, it may seem nothing is involved, except an upward movement of wages, production costs and, ultimately, prices. Beyond that point, however, the trend ceases to be an "adjustment" of wages and prices and becomes ordinary deterioration of money; i.e., inflation.

In countries that have experienced the disaster of runaway inflation, there was no talk of rising wages rising prices, but only of the cheapening of money. The United States dollar, which has been relatively stable, is not immune to the same disaster that overtook the franc and the mark. To protect it is the thought of all who serve stabilization by practicing it, as against those who talk about stabilization but practice inflation. A workman who draws $50 a week and needs $45 to pay his living expenses is better off than one who draws $160 a week and needs $150, an obvious truth that inflationists never see. The way to give wage earners a better break is to reduce living costs by increasing the purchasing power of dollars.

Politics Costs Money

MORE remarkable than the testimony in the Pauley investigation showing how money matters are handled in organized politics is the way these open secrets always shock the public.

Politics costs money. The money must be raised. The restrictions on the way it is raised are not very restrictive. Both parties are up against the same financial problems, and both parties go about solving them in the same way, which is never to pass up a chance to replenish the treasury. The party in power, being in a position to bestow favors, always has the advantage and is always subject to exposure, therefore, by the party out of power. The party out of power has nothing to lose by proving that the party in power is composed of unscrupulous characters as far as campaign money is concerned.

There have been many ideas for changing this setup, besides a great many more ideas for hedging it in with so many laws that corrupt practices are impossible. These ideas reach a climax every fourth year when practices of raising money for a national campaign get the public on its ear. But thereafter nothing happens. One of the ideas for changing it is to finance political parties out of the federal treasury, but the party in power invariably is opposed to that because it would be too good a break for the party out of power. Besides, politicians of both parties hesitate to give up the privilege of smearing the opposition with recurrent revelations of the rascality of the opposition, which is what the Republicans now are doing to the Democrats even as Democrats love to do to the Republicans whenever they have such a heaven-sent chance as a Pauley investigation.

Education Boom

FOR once in their lifetimes, teachers are in position to do some real collective bargaining, especially in the field of advanced education. The gold rush of government-financed student war veterans, added to the ordinary college and university enrollment, is creating a shortage of instructors.

Proposals like that of Ohio's Gov. Lausche for converting wartime installations to school sites to relieve campus congestion add to the prospect that by next fall competent teachers will be in as great demand as turret lathe operators during wartime. Not only do colleges and universities have a financial incentive to give education to all who want it and have the wherewithal to pay for it, but there also is a strong political incentive to make educators give veterans what they want. The catch is, of course, that education is more than buildings and equipment. It is primarily teachers—good teachers.

If instructors are to be expected to work overtime with jam-packed classes as their contribution to national reconversion, it is reasonable for them to expect they should enjoy some of the lush fruits of an educational boom. Theirs is traditionally the most underpaid of the skilled occupations. Working always on the border and sometimes well beyond professional standards, teachers draw less pay on the average than the ordinary run of skilled workers. For years they have been saying something should be done about it. This looks like as good a time as any to start something, while everybody up to and including politicians cannot do without them.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Argentina Throws Little Light on U. S. Policy.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4—The Argentine election failed to furnish much substance for determination of a successful American foreign policy—now involved in sharp inner debate on the primary problem of how to treat with Russia and her Communism around the world.

Never before has the United States so boldly and openly attempted to influence an election in a foreign country. The state department blue book charges that Col. Peron was tied in with the Nazi Fascist regime was timed unprecedentedly for the final hot stages of the Argentine campaign—but its evidence was all incontrovertibly true.

The official inside explanation is, Secretary Byrnes received the evidence, dug from files seized in Germany by our own army of occupation, only a short time before he gave it out officially in his book addressed to the Latin American republics. I hear he grappled for two hours in his office with the problem of whether to time the publication before the election or after. Personally he made the decision.

Backing of Labor

Peron, of course, not only had the backing of Argentine remnants of Fascism, but the labor vote, or the support of labor leaders. The Byrnes blue book was inwardly directed toward alienating his labor groups, and did in fact change the electoral prospects from a sure-thing for Peron into a question of uncertainty. While Peron's opponent, Tamborini, had the support of Communists, the Russian following in Argentine is not strong now, due to the Catholic religious beliefs of the population. Tamborini's following ran into all groups.

Yet a Tamborini victory could not be counted upon to end the issue. Our authorities suspected it might be followed by a revolutionary coup d'etat, with or without military action. This implication was not dispelled by Peron himself in the announcement that he would not retire from politics, if defeated.

With this Argentine exception, the news of every passing day makes it more glaringly evident that the democratic world has not found satisfactory methods of curing its own weaknesses, or extricating itself from the roll of dupe for Communism into which role the joint war plunged us.

On the very day the democratic British frontpaged their army mutinies not only in far-off India but at Aldershot in England itself, a paragraph news item from Communist-led Bulgaria reported suppression of a newspaper for ten days for writing something which could be interpreted as harmful to their army "unity."

The precise nature of our deficiencies in self-leadership, however, can be seen better behind the news that nine of the new American (South and North) cardinals spurned a dinner at the Spanish embassy—but not New York's Cardinal Spellman. This was a social affair, and no doubt can easily be over-interpreted as a major diplomatic event. But in it are the same seeds of our own foreign policy confusion.

Our Desires in Spain

What do we want in Spain? Offhand you would say we want abolition of Franco and Fascism. Of course we do. This is what the nine cardinals who remained away said by their act. But do we not want more than that? Truly what we want is a democratic Spain, a friendly and honestly democratic Spain. We have just seen in this war that when Fascism was abolished in Bulgaria, Poland, we did not get friendly democracies in their place, but resistant and censorious (of us and Britain) Communists. Are we going to be so stupid as to do the same thing now by diplomacy in Spain, to lose that too by delivering it into the hands of Communism?

Our foreign policy now says only that we should force Franco out. It is purely negative, and thus plays the game of the Communists more than our own. It neglects entirely the affirmative job to be done in Spain, lest we lose democratic friendship there, too, in victory as we have lost so much of Europe. This is what the wiser Cardinal Spellman seemed to say by his attendance at the dinner. (It probably means he will become Vatican state secretary.) If we are to win in Spain, we must get in there, get some friends there for our side, get as many friends as the Communists have there; and we cannot do it by the shortsighted, purely hateful, half worked-out negative policy we have now.

The democratic nations will never win in their treating with the Soviets until they get on to these finer points of the game.

Gen. Mitchell and Bikini

Atom Bomb Tests Recall Events of 25 Years Ago.

WASHINGTON—In May, on the lonely little atoll of Bikini, halfway between the Philippines and Hawaii, an atomic bomb will be exploded over 92 ships of war.

Two months later, according to present plans of "Operation Crossroads," as the joint chiefs of staff have dubbed this experiment, a barge will drift into the lagoon and explode another atomic bomb among the warships at surface level.

Exactly 25 years before this latter test, in July, 1921, Brig. Gen. William Mitchell and a handful of his flying Jennies proved to the world that a battleship could be sunk by bombs from the air.

WILLIAM MITCHELL

It will be well for the people of this country to evaluate the Bikini atomic bomb tests in the light of those conducted a quarter of a century ago, when a 42-year-old "flying fool" tried to make the world understand that the warfare of tomorrow would be something else again.

"Billy" Mitchell is now vindicated by acts of a Congress that once brushed him off, is now honored by military men who sit in the same chairs of those generals, admirals, and cabinet members who contributed to his court martial and disgrace.

Perhaps unfortunately for the nation, there is no one individual screaming at the top of leather-lined lungs about the consequences of the Bikini atomic bomb tests as Mitchell yelled for a unified department of defense with Army, Navy and air branches; for aircraft carriers; for airfields in the Aleutians.

Under Orders

When Bill Mitchell made his tests in 1921, he was operating under orders designed to make success of the experiment virtually impossible. Those orders were that he was not to use anything heavier than a 600-pound bomb and that the bombing planes must fly at 10,000 feet or higher when they dropped their bombs.

Mitchell violated both orders when he and his infant airforce sank the German battleship Ostfriesland off the Virginia Capes. His planes carried one-ton bombs and although one of them got to the height of 11,000 feet on the previous test, most flew at a height of a mile or slightly over. Considering the antiquated planes, the lack of adequate bombsights, the fact that they had to fly their loads 60 miles off shore and dump them without the aid of modern mechanisms, the miracle is that they hit anything at all!

But the Ostfriesland went down in from four to 20 minutes. (Official reports vary that much).

Air Commodore Frances Charlton of the British Navy, who was one of the observers, messaged Mitchell: "This shot will ring around the world. I am leaving for England convinced that you have shaken naval tactics to their foundation. May Lord Nelson rise from his tomb and smite me if I'm wrong."

They'll Be Watching

Those few who remember when Mitchell proved to the world that bombers could sink a battleship will have at least one eye on the foreign observers and their reactions when the joint chiefs of staff conduct their atomic bomb experiments in the almost landlocked lagoon of Bikini atoll.

It having been 1921 when Mitchell's so-called "fool luck" sank the German cruiser Frankfort and the German battleship Ostfriesland off the Virginia Capes, there were no German observers aboard the transport Henderson.

But in less time than it takes to tell it, Mitchell got a cable from Germany asking for a 3,000-word report on the experiment from Berlin widely read scientific publication, Glasschutz und Luftschutz. Somebody must have been around.

On deck of the Henderson was one observer who wasn't making any secret of it. He was the Hon. G. Katsuda, member of the Tokyo House of Peers. With him was one Hon. G. Shibuta, who identified himself as a representative of the Kobe Chamber of Commerce.

Katsuda Kept a Record

The Hon. Mr. Katsuda was so interested in the experiment that he kept a stopwatch on the Ostfriesland from the moment Mitchell's bombers hit until it sank in the choppy seas. More importantly, the Hon. Messrs. Katsuda and Shibuta were very enthusiastic amateur photographers—so enthusiastic in fact that they kept four high-powered cameras clicking away during the entire test.

Emile Gauvreau and Lester Cohen, who wrote Mitchell's biography, report that the Hon. G. Katsuda gave a rather extensive interview to Daniel D. Bidwell of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

"Very great experiment," the Hon. Mr. Katsuda told Bidwell. "Very exciting. Must put in cable for very great Japanese newspapers as eye-witness. Very fortunate to be here. Our people will cheer your great Mitchell and you may be sure will study his experiments. There is much to learn here."

Used at Pearl Harbor

Twenty years later what the Japs "learned here" was put into practice at Pearl Harbor.

Ahead of them was the German Luftwaffe, which, even before Mitchel died in 1936, was building an airforce that was to stagger the world and cause the United States to organize a civilian air raid defense, which Mitchell had urged two decades before.

When Mitchell and his little squadron flew out of Langley Field (Va.) to show what an air-borne bomb would do to cruisers and battleships, there were key military cabinet members and top generals and admirals who weren't as interested as the Hon. Mr. Katsuda. They wouldn't even go along on the Henderson.

"Operation Crossroads," as the Bikini atomic bomb experiments have been named, won't be without observers. It already has been decided that 150 newspaper and radio men will be along.

DO IT NOW!

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, March 4, 1936.

The Ohio house and senate were in an unrelenting disagreement over the question of adjournment and Governor Martin L. Davey withheld action on his constitutional right to send both houses home.

Thirteen nuns calmly completed mass in a second story chapel of St. Anthony's convent at Providence, R. I. while four fire companies fought a first-floor blaze in the building. Although smoke filtered into the chapel, the nuns waited nine minutes until the Rev. Fr. Francis McCabe had finished mass before filing out of the building.

Mrs. E. H. Ward was elected president of the Elks Woman's club at a meeting held in the Elks clubrooms. Mrs. H. C. Schultz of Morral was elected vice president, Mrs. W. T. Buchanan, secretary and Mrs. B. A. Pierre, treasurer.

A delegation of 70 members of Epworth M. E. church attended revival services at Wesley M. E. church where the pastor, Rev. Stanley W. Wiant, preached on "What Jesus Has to Tell Us About Human Life."

Mrs. Henry Grimes of 512 Avondale avenue was hostess to the Ladies Aid society of the Lee Street Presbyterian church.

Misses Irene Guider, Mary Conroy, Alice Gertrude Smith and Myldred Partridge were guests when Miss Lucille Crock entertained the Just for Fun Bridge club at Ringer's Inn.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, March 4, 1926.

In a final effort to iron out controversy over increased water rates and reach a settlement out of court representatives of the Marion Water Co. and city officials were in a series of conferences.

A Washington dispatch reported that despite the week's sudden and sensational break in the New York stock market there had been no damaging effect on the nation's industrial and commercial situation.

A news item reported that Clayton Harper of 582 East Mark street owned a Bible published in 1846.

Grant E. Mouser Jr. was elected exalted ruler of Marion Lodge of Elks.

So They Say

Israel Jacobson, director for Greece of the American Joint Distribution Committee — "Property of Greek Jews who died heirless during the past several years of Italian, German and Bulgarian persecution is being turned over to a newly formed foundation to be administered by the American Joint Distribution Committee."

Robert McLean, president of The Associated Press—"Let us continue to establish our moral credit around the world by our efforts to maintain free exchange of news, leaving the actual conduct of that exchange to those dedicated to impartial and objective reporting. That way, indeed, lies the national interest."

Pope Pius XII—"To obtain the desired harmony between labor and capital, professional organizations and unions, have been devised, both of which are intended, not as a weapon directed exclusively toward defensive and offensive war, which causes reactions and reprisals, nor as an overflowing river, which is divided, but as a bridge which unites.

British Women Keep War Jobs

By Barbara Wace

LONDON — English women aren't flocking back to cradle and kitchen quite as fast as was expected. But the reason the British girl is clinging to her job is not purely a desire for a career. More often than not it's a case of "I would, if I could, but I can't" become a housewife again.

Last available Ministry of Labor reports admitted that the November estimate of 170,000 expected to go back to home life now has shrunk by 100,000. The exodus of married women from their jobs definitely is slackening. More than six million women hold jobs in Britain today—over a million above the prewar figure.

"I've had a job for six years now. Can't afford to stop work, duckie." Legs apart, hands on hips, the stocky little railway porter at Charing Cross terminus grinned ruefully. "The old man don't make enough, not with those two youngsters of mine wearing out their boots the way they do. Besides—I've got used to it now. Like the life, you know. Like all the people and all." And off she trundled a mountainous truck full of baggage.

Waiting for Husband

"I'll stop work just as soon as my husband comes home," declared the slim, pretty, dark-haired London bus clippie, juggling her ticket puncher and a handfull of pennies as she spoke, and breaking off repeatedly to call, "Pass down the car please," or "Plenty of room upstairs dear."

"We've been married five years. Since I was eighteen. But we've never had a home yet. I'll stay on until he's been demobbed. It's good to have the money, and living in one room what else is there to do? But once he's back—it's home and a baby for me."

But the immaculately dressed, highly efficient member of England's titled landed gentry, mother of an eight-year-old daughter and holder of a responsible political job since 1939, was as emphatic on the other side.

"I've tasted blood now," she declared firmly. "I've known what it's like to hold down a paid job during the war. I'll never go back to doing nothing at home again."

Needs A Rest

The worn looking, gentle faced countrywomen from the Women's Voluntary Services smoothed her neat bottle green uniform lovingly as she talked.

"I'm terribly tired. There's the family, and the rations, and the evacuees only just gone home, and all theWVS work. And then, of course, the garden. I feel now I want three months' rest. But I know I'll want to do something after that. Perhaps not full time, with my husband home again. But something useful; part time perhaps."

Selfridge's was crowded with shoppers, but between sales of rather drab looking utility stockings the blond, glamorous shop assistant leaned on the counter, her face showing tired lines around the heavily made-up enormous eyes.

"Of course I'd like to go home and be a wife again. Who wouldn't?" she asked petulantly "But now that my husband's lost his overtime since VJ day—he was in a reserved occupation—there doesn't seem enough to live on. Not the way we want to, at least. We've got used to more money and better things. And besides, I've no house to be a housewife in anyway. We've had our name down for a year, but it's still just two rooms with mother. It's a relief, really, to get out to work."

Feeling Is General

Typical of many of their countrywomen, if not of all, these women in their answers probably give a fair indication of how their sex is feeling. There must be thousands like the titled worker, who feel they can never give up the satisfaction of being needed in a real, honest-to-goodness job.

"Most married women in their hearts want to go back to their children and husband with all their time and energy," said the Chief Officer for Release and Resettlement of Women in one of the Ministry of Labor's widespread Information Offices. "But many of them can't yet do so in the way they wish. And until they can, they'd rather work."

(The Associated Press)

Writing It Down

By Truman Twill

We were talking about letters and the part they play in human affairs—all kinds of affairs from breach of promise suits to friendship. The other fellow thought it was a pity the letter writing boom during the war, when millions of people put down their thoughts on paper, had folded up.

He thought it was too bad, too, that many people, separated by the circumstances of civilian life, do not keep in touch with one another through letters. Some of his best friends, he explained, live so far away he never sees them any more, but friendship has been kept alive through correspondence.

Another thing about letters he thought shouldn't be underestimated is their importance as the best means of outlining ideas. In conversation, he pointed out, there are too many things competing for attention, too many distractions. But in letters, the writer can stick to his point and work on it until everything has been cleared up to his satisfaction.

He mentioned a particular kind of letter that he enjoys. In this kind the writer takes a thought he has been turning over in his mind and puts it down on paper to see what the receiver thinks of it. He thought that if more people would get rid of the idea that letters should be full of chit-chat and gossip they would have more luck writing them. Chit-chat, he pointed out, is a special kind of art in letter writing, and not many letter writers are able to handle it. For one thing, there isn't enough chit-chat.

Many persons, he mused, are at a disadvantage in face-to-face conversation, yet do all right in letters. He recalled one fellow who wrote himself into a good job, though in person appearance he was so handicapped he couldn't have talked himself into the same job in a thousand years. Some people have the knack of putting it on paper, that's all, he mused.

He was opposed to keeping letters. It is unfair to the writer to keep anything on file but business letters, he said. Besides, it isn't courteous. You wouldn't think of taking shorthand notes in a friendly conversation, because it would scare the person doing the talking. Friendly letters should be read, enjoyed and destroyed. And they shouldn't be shown around unless the writer knows it's going to happen. Otherwise, he may say something he intended to be confidential.

For three cents, he concluded, and the cost of the writing material, a letter is the best investment on earth. It also can be the most dangerous thing on earth when used foolishly, but that's no knock against letters. It is only a reflection on the intelligence of people who write the wrong things. He concluded if we had more letter writing and less talking in this country we'd be better off.

Amen—and apologies for taking mental notes on a conversation supposed to be private.

DIVORCE AND REMARRIAGE

Editor of The Star: I want the public to know that the Pilgrim Holiness church is positively against any of their ministers marrying any divorced persons (page 110, section 168 of their Manual). The parties may lie to the minister where he does not know them and go ahead and marry them but he is not responsible for their lie. I personally believe there is scriptural grounds for divorce and remarriage (Mat. 5:32. 19:5), but the Pilgrim church does not make any allowance whatever.

There were two schools in the time of Christ. One believed a man could put away his wife for almost any cause and remarry, while the other school only permitted it in the case of adultery, so the Pharisee asked Jesus if a man could put away his wife for every cause (Mat. 19:3). Jesus answered (V. 9), the only cause was fornication. In V. 6 Jesus said, "What God had joined together let no man put asunder." He did not say let no court put asunder, for no court in the sight of God can do that, but you see it is possible for some man to come between husband and wife by adultery, thereby severing the marriage relation between husband and wife. The divorce does not separate them, it only sanctions what had already been done by adultery. We are told that the man that commits adultery with a harlot becomes one flesh with her, thereby severing his relation with his wife.

Jesus would not keep a harlot for his bride and I am sure he would not ask any one to do what he would not do. The marriage relation is sacred and fundamental and the foundation of the home and society. It is a serious thing to mar that sacred relation between husband and wife by adultery. Under the law such guilty person was put to death but the innocent party was free to remarry.

It is high time the preachers and churches would awake to the awful trend of immorality and looseness of our divorce courts in this country. Would like to say more but space will not permit.

Yours for a clean government,
C. M. BROWN,
770 Nelson street.

POWER OF THE BALLOT

Editor of The Star: Too many people complain about the state their city, state and country politics are in but they neglect to vent their complaint on the right ones.

What I am trying to put across is this—that the voters don't go out unless the candidate is giving out free beer or has a hillbilly band to entertain him.

Oh don't start for your guns and say this is a fabrication, because, believe me it isn't.

Take one southern state, for instance, and I'm sure everybody knows who I mean. He took a band out campaigning with him and he did very nicely.

So what do you folks think? Are you going to get up from your seat this coming election or are you going to let it up to somebody else to do the voting and the very next day go down to the corner "pub" and start saying how wrong they are and griping about it, because it won't do you any good....you have no right to gripe, because you didn't vote. Now did you?

But of course it is awful hard to go down and register; it might even take you an hour.

And after all, you figure it's the politicians' business to run the country, now don't you?

You couldn't do anything about it anyway could you?

Well, all I got to say is that votes still count in this country and there isn't just one column of candidates with a X already there—no, not yet."

Think it over and vote next election. Let's get a good administration which is a voice for all the people.

ROBERT C. LITELL,
411 Fies Ave.

THREATS OF FASCISM

Editor of The Star: Our war against fascism is scarcely over, yet we can see fascist elements trying to gain a footing in our own nation today. There are two obvious examples:

(1) The filibuster of the southern congressmen against the fair employment practices legislation; legislation which was aimed to oppose in employment all discrimination, especially, racial. How anything which is so strongly suported by our Constitution and our Bill of Rights could receive such foul and malodorous treatment is beyond comprehension! One could understand something like this happening in Spain or Argentina, but in the land of the Gettysburg Address—! Other congressmen stood mutely by, even knowing the filibuster was a profanity. They withheld criticism for fear of endangering their own political prestige! The filibuster is over, but it will not be forgotten, and the United States senate has only itself to blame if the people become cynical towards it for tolerating such an unChristian and unAmerican outrage.

(2) The attempt of certain groups to impose a system of compulsory military conscription upon the youth of this nation. In general, the proposed conscription law calls for at least one year of continuous forced military training. Under it everyone must take four months basic training. In addition, those who go to college must take four years military training and spend at least another summer in military camp. This means military and federal control over education through military subsidies to colleges and military officers on the faculty.

Late developments of the past war prove that we cannot train men physically, technically, or mentally today for wars tomorrow. Conscription in peacetime ruins the morale of soldiers. It is impossible to make crusaders of conscripts, and it is basically un-American.

Universal military training will not prevent war. It did not prevent wars for France, Italy, Germany, or Japan. It gives only a false sense of security. Advocates of conscription like to point to the Pearl Harbor losses as a witness for their point of view; but look at the whole picture: the victory through democratic processes of our nation and the utter defeat of Germany and Japan — the two Axis nations which practiced conscription.

This proposed conscription would not only indoctrinate our youth with militarism, involve a cost of three billion dollars a year, and continue antiquated military tactics in an atomic era, but worst of all it would constitute an ominous threat to the rest of the world. It would shout to the world: "America is preparing, not for peace, but for war!"

We have seen how difficult it is to destroy fascism in Germany and Japan, let us not allow it to sink its roots in this country.

ATTLEE MAPS ATOM DEFENSE

Tells Commons All British Forces Must Unite During A-Bomb Era.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 4 — Prime Minister Attlee told commons today that the British Army, Navy and Air Force "should regard themselves as part of a single service" during the era of atomic armament.

Opening a two-day debate on British defense policy, Attlee observed that the world was in an "uneasy period of unsettlement."

He said the advent of new weapons, especially the atomic bomb, "clearly must affect all decisions on future defense."

He promised, as did the white paper upon which the debate was held, that British armed forces will be cut from their present size of more than 4,000,000 men to 1,100,000 by the end of this year but added:

"To speed up demobilization still further would have been to wreck the efficiency of the services."

The prime minister referred to British international commitments, saying "we intended to fulfill" obligations to the United Nations.

U. S. SHARE IN UNO POLICE FORCE EYED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—The number of men, ships and planes this country may be willing to contribute to UNO's international police force is expected to be decided tentatively within the next two weeks.

Present indications are that the emphasis will be on warships and aircraft, rather than on troops.

The question is in the hands of the joint chiefs of staff. This group of top Army-Navy leaders is due to come up with some kind of an answer before the March 21 meeting in New York of the military staff committee of UNO's security council.

Composed of representatives of the big five—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China—the military staff committee will be faced at the outset with the problem of determining the size and makeup of the force with which the United Nations will undertake to "maintain or restore international peace and security."

GE Union To Stage Protest at Cleveland

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 4—Declaring the General Electric Co. is using an injunction limiting picketa as "a strike breaking weapon," Local 707 of the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers called for mobilization of its entire membership, "all labor organizations and friends" in a parade at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

Fred Haug, business representative for the local, declared in a statement that the demonstration would be "an anti-injunction parade, all-out to demonstrate for labor's right."

He ordered the mobilization to take place in front of an east side postoffice near several General Electric plants. The union claims a membership of some 3,300 persons here.

One Killed, Two Hurt in 3-Train NYC Wreck

By The Associated Press

ASHTABULA, O., March 4—A wreck which piled up three New York Central freight trains last night cost the life of an engineer, Clarence L. Meiner of Erie, Pa.

The railroad also reported that J. F. Pfotz, a brakeman, and H. S. Kissinger, a fireman, were injured.

Meiner's train and another were westbound, the other eastbound. Witnesses said it appeared a car on Miner's train dropped a wheel, causing a derailment which threw cars from the other trains off the track at a cross-over near the local round-house.

BRT HEAD FIRES 2 FOR WRITING STORY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 4—A. F. Whitney, head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, says he had to fire two members of his headquarters staff because they were disloyal in preparing a magazine article.

Harry I. Becker, a research clerk, and Wellington Roe, a writer under contract to the brotherhood, reported their dismissals Saturday, just after Whitney had been honored by brotherhood associates on the 50th anniversary of his membership in the organization.

Whitney declared in a statement that the two men prepared a magazine article containing material which he previously had turned down. Part of it had been written by Roe for a congressional committee hearing and later had to be revised at Whitney's direction, he said. Other material, Whitney added, was data he had refused to approve for publication in the brotherhood's official publication.

"This act constituted a disloyal attack upon the brotherhood and a contempt for superior authority, being wholly at variance with what they well knew was brotherhood policy," said Whitney's statement.

Becker declared the article contained "nothing detrimental to the B.R.T."

Roe said he would return to New York City to resume work on a book he is writing.

EVANGELICAL DELEGATIONS AT CALVARY SERVICES

Two Day Visitation Evangelism School Opens Here.

Approximately 40 Evangelical churches of the Southern district of the Ohio conference were represented by pastors at the opening session of a two-day school of visitation evangelism in Calvary Evangelical church here this morning. Besides pastors some lay members of local churches were present.

In opening, Rev. E. E. Nietz, district superintendent, spoke on "The Fields Are White," pointing out that the thought of harvest suggests "a profitable lesson," including "preparation of soil, seed sowing, waiting in patience, trust in God." It also constitutes a challenge, he declared, "The field is a responsibility," and quoted statistics showing that 33 million persons are not identified with any church and there are 17 million youths with no religious instruction in the nation today. "This calls for consecration on the part of both pastors and laity, he said.

Dr. R. H. Mueller, general secretary of Christian education and evangelism, in his address on "The Cumulative Kingdom Advance Program," stated the reasons for evangelism as follows: "It is a commission of Christ; folks need salvation; need for church continuance and sustenance; pagan forces are becoming more aggressive than so-called Christian forces." Rev. R. M. Holdeman, assistant secretary of education and evangelism, talked on "How To Carry on the Kingdom Advance Visitation Evangelism Crusade in the Local Church." For this program he stated the work needs to be done in the spirit of Christ in compassion, thoughtfulness, unselfishness and a consciousness of God's presence.

An afternoon session was set for 1:30, and the evening session will be held at the Oakland church parish house with a supper followed by home visitation by evangelism teams. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions tomorrow.

GRAIN CEILING HIKE EASES OPA CRITICISM

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4 — Boosts in ceiling prices on grains today softened some congressional criticism of OPA but still left in doubt the agency's chances of getting a requested $1,854,000 deficiency appropriation.

OPA has been under particular fire from farm state legislators critical of former grain ceilings and concerned over a possible price ceiling on raw cotton.

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla) of the senate agriculture committee told reporters he was glad to see OPA "finally paying some attention" to directives from congress concerning farm prices. He called the grain increases "long overdue."

The grain ceiling price increases amount to three cents a bushel on wheat, three cents on corn, four cents on barley, two cents on oats and four cents on rye. The new prices are effective today.

BRIDES

and other foods available here, many of which are almost impossible to get in England. Many of the brides, however, said they had been too seasick during much of the time since they had left their homes to think much about eating.

The skyline of lower New York and the Empire State building and other mid-town skyscrapers had thrilled the girls, but they had little time to see the sights of New York. They regretted that most of the city that they had seen had been less attractive dock section.

The trains in America are much larger than those they were accustomed to, one girl remarked. They also seem noisier. The open arrangement of the Pullmans is different from English trains, which are composed of series of closed compartments, they noted. The number and size of newspapers and magazines also evoked interest, since a newspaper in England today consists of one sheet due to the newsprint shortage.

93 Go To California

Ninty-five of the young women were going to California. One bride, whose destination is Fresno, said that it must be a wonderful place, at least her husband says so. Another girl, going to Denver, found it hard to believe that her new home city, all of it, was one mile high. She said she had been told she would have to get used to water boiling at odd temperatures and other natural phenomena caused by the extreme height. She was anxious to see the Grand Canyon. Two young women who were going to Iowa and Idaho said they expected to see plenty of corn and potatoes in their respective states, from what they had been told. All of the girls said they like the weather here.

With typical system, the army had attached tags to the clothes of each girl, upon which was typewritten her name, destination, and various shipping code symbols.

A crowd of several scores of people was on hand at 8:50 Sunday morning to greet the train. The train was late, however, and did not arrive until about 10:30 a. m. Accompanying Shenefield to welcome his wife and son were his mother, Mrs. Loren Wilson of 485 Cherry street, and Clifford Primmer, a friend. In the Fick party were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fick of the Dix avenue address, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mann of near Marion, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Morey of 577 East Center street.

Met at Yule Party

Shenefield met his wife, the former Audrey Smith in her home of Leicester at a Christmas party. He was stationed in England 15 months of the three years he spent in the army, and was a mechanic with the Eighth Air Force. His wife was a war worker. They were born, Shenefield said, on the same day.

Shenefield's flying brought him into contact with members of the French Forces of the Interior, or Maquis. His plane was assigned to the task of dropping personnel, gasoline, ammunition, and food to the French resistance organization before and after D-day. He returned to the United States on Friday, the 13th of July, which, he said, turned out to be a lucky day for him.

Fick met his wife, the former Jean Margaret Smith, at a dance in London. She was a bank clerk. They were married at her home after several months of courtship. He entered the army in April 1943 and spent more than two years in England as a member of the ground personnel of the Eighth Air Force, before being discharged last year. The Ficks will make their home in St. Louis, where he is employed by the S. S. Kresge Co.

Pension Society Hears Sermon by Rev. Berry

The meeting of the Old Age Pension Society of Marion county which was held Friday at 2 p. m. in the Eagles hall opened with the singing of "America" and the salute to the flag by the group. Prayer was offered by Rev. C. L. Daine followed by the Lord's Prayer and the song "Count Your Blessings."

A sermon was given by Rev. Frank Berry on the eleventh chapter of John, 35-36 verses. This was followed by a song, "Tell It Again." Rev. Daine gave a talk on the Bible, reports were given by W. M. Porter, and a song was presented by the choir, "In the Garden." Plans were made for a covered dish dinner to be held Friday, March 8. The benediction closed the meeting.

Ex-GI Held in Death of Wife's War Baby

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, March 4—A 22-year-old ex-soldier was held without bail today on a charge of homicide in the fatal beating of his wife's three-month-old son.

Emmil was discharged recently after 32 months in the Army. He was overseas nine months.

RESCUERS TAKING 27 BODIES FROM PLANE

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 4—Bulldozers cut through forest and brush on the steep slopes of Thing mountain today, clearing a path to effect the recovery of 27 bodies from a wrecked and burned American Airlines passenger plane.

Indications were that stretcher bearers would not be able to get the bodies, all but six of them charred, until late in the day.

Westbound from New York to Los Angeles, the plane yesterday rammed into the side of the fog-shrouded mountain, 60 miles east of San Diego, less than an hour before its scheduled landing in Los Angeles. It was last reported over El Centro, Calif., at 7:53 a. m. and is believed to have crashed and exploded a few minutes later.

The crash was the worst in commercial airline history.

Hail and snowstorms hampered the rescue parties and the path-clearing crew. Progress up the 8,000-foot peak was slow. A sheriff's party reached the crash scene, 1,500-feet from the summit, yesterday afternoon. They found all but the tail section and a part of the wing had been destroyed by flames.

A newspaper reporter who reached the scene said the big airliner appeared to have bounced several hundred feet after striking the mountain.

The bodies of 23 adults and two infants were bound by searchers before the hunt was abandoned to await the dawn. Bodies of the other two passengers are believed to be in the charred wreckage. There were no Ohioans aboard.

The disturbance postponed a meeting of parliament.

Witnesses said the fighting in the crowd of 2,000 or 3,000 started when someone shouted "Death to the Tudehs."

An important member of parliament demanded yesterday that the government file with the United Nations security council formal charges that Russia had violated an agreement with Great Britain and the United States to withdraw troops from Iran by March 2.

Moscow Analyzes" Byrnes' Speech

LONDON, March 4 — A recent assertion by U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes that the United States would not fight for reaction "should mean that real honest elections" will be held in Greece, the Moscow radio commentator "analyzer" said last night.

The Soviet commentator did not mention Byrnes' allusions to "maneuvering" and "aggression," which have been widely interpreted as directed at Russia.

Motorist in Accident Denies Drunk Driving

Harvey Klink, 58, of Bucyrus, pleaded not guilty in municipal court today to a charge of driving while intoxicated and a hearing was set for next Monday. He was released on $125 bond.

The charge was the result of an accident Sunday morning at 1:50 a. m. when Klink's car crashed head-on with a car driven by Thomas J. Roberts, 21, of 365 North Prospect street, police reported. The accident occurred on East Center street. Both cars were badly damaged, but occupants suffered no serious injuries.

Mrs. Bernice Benedict of Bucyrus, a passenger in Klink's car, suffered a slight nose injury. She was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and forfeited $50 bond when she did not appear in municipal court today.

HICSWA RECAPTURED AFTER BRIEF SPREE

By The Associated Press

YOKOHOMA, March 4 — The escape from an Army stockade of condemned Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa Jr. and his recapture in a Japanese house of prostitution was announced today by the U. S. Eighth army provost marshal.

(The news "terribly shocked" Hicswa's parents, scheduled to appear in Washington tomorrow to appeal the death sentence given him for slaying two Japanese civilians.)

("I hope it doesn't hurt his case when it comes up Tuesday," Adam Hicswa, uncle of the 20-year-old youth, said at the Wallington, N. J., family home.)

The provost marshal said Hicswa and two others escaped from the Yokohoma army stockade several days ago by forcing a defective door and climbing a rope over an 18-foot wall. Hicswa, he said, was found in a room with a Japanese woman in the house of prostitution.

One of the other escapees, Pvt. Kirby Willis of San Francisco, also was apprehended in the house of prostitution, the provost marshal reported, while the third, a Japanese named Yoshitaka To, was picked up two days later.

A war department board of review in Washington will hear the appeal of the death sentence, ordered by an Army court martial two months ago. Its findings and recommendations would be presented to President Truman for final action.

Announcement of Hicswa's death sentence brought protests to New Jersey congressmen.

STRIKES

idle in labor disputes, here were these other labor developments:

1. A new development came in the 19-week strike of independent San Francisco machinists which has idled 50,000 related workers. At Fresno, delegates to the California Conference of Machinists indorsed the pledge of Harry W. Brown, president of the International Association of Machinists, to effect an early settlement of the wage dispute.

3. A General Electric Co. spokesman said GE has given the mayor of Philadelphia "ironclad assurance" no attempt will be made to hire strikebreakers at the Quaker City plant where mass picketing was outlawed by a court injunction. Officials of the striking CIO electrical workers union had indicated the union would abandon its defiance of the injunction, if the company gave assurance it would not use strikebreakers.

Westinghouse and union leaders were to meet today in New York in conciliation conferences aimed at settling the 48-day stoppage. Involved in the wage dispute are 175,000 workers at GE and Westinghouse.

3. The soft coal industry's answer to John L. Lewis' request for reopening of mine wage talks was reported in preparation. It probably will reach Lewis within the next day or two.

4. The UAW-CIO agreed with Detroit tool and die manufacturers for a 20 cent hourly wage increase, subject to approval of the Automotive Tool and Die Manufacturers association. The boost would bring average wages to $1.94 hourly for 8,000 tool and die workers, according to union figures.

Spark Could Set Franco's Spanish Tinder-box Afire

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 4—Will Generalissimo Francisco capitulate to demands for a democratic form of government in Spain or will it take another terrible civil war to settle the issue?

When I made a survey of the situation in Madrid a month ago it seemed clear that Franco recognized his dictatorship was doomed by Allied opposition and that he was maneuvering for a graceful, face-saving exit from the rank of chief of state. I believe that he had hopes for retaining command of the Spanish army under a restoration of the monarchy, although this obviously would lay him open to a charge of trying to control the new government through his military strength.

Dewitt Mackenzie

The signs are that the generalissimo still is maneuvering for a compromise. Be that as it may, this is a tense moment for Europe, because it wouldn't take much to set the civil conflict of 1936-39 in motion again.

Militarily Franco's position is far more powerful than it was when he unseated the Republican regime in 1939 after three years of horror and established his dictatorship. He has had plenty of time to consolidate his ground and he hasn't neglected the military side.

Army Is Powerful

The Spanish standing army is estimated at 700,000 men and while it is equipped mainly with light arms that's a lot of strength numerically. Moreover, Franco has been building highways and bridges which may have been designed for peaceful purposes but which would be invaluable for the quick movement of troops and supplies.

I was in Madrid on the eve of the arrival in Portugal of Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne, for further discussions with Franco's representative regarding a possible restoration of the throne. These discussions had been going on quietly for a long time and I have small doubt that the generalissimo hoped an agreement would provide him with an avenue of escape from the dilemma created by the Allied insistence that his totalitarian government must go.

The negotiations came a cropper—or at least that was the announcement—and it is a fair guess that the difficulty may have centered in a demand by Franco that he be allowed to retain command of the army.

As for an expression of public sentiment in Spain, you could hold your ear to the ground until frostbitten without hearing very much worth while.

People Have Hopes

However, there are two things which the people certainly desire. They want an absolutely free national election at which they may choose their own form of government, and they want to achieve that election without another civil war.

The situation reminds me of a circumstance I encounter each summer while camping out in the great Maine woods on fishing expeditions. Everywhere you see signs warning you not to be careless about throwing away lighted tional election at which they may start terrible forest fires. You could cause an awful conflagration by flipping a match into the Spanish tinder right now.

SLASH IN FOOD BRINGS CRY: "BREAD, NOT BEER"

Prohibition Mentioned As Solons Eye Grain Cut.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—Cries of "Bread, Not Beer" rose on Capital Hill today.

They were voiced in connection with the campaign to provide more grain for hungry war victims abroad.

Several legislators declared they favor sharp reductions in grain allocations to distillers and brewers.

At least one, Rep. Bryson (D-SC), advocated a much stronger step—prohibition.

Rep. Rees (R-Kas) didn't go into the prohibition question, but the congressional record typical of the views expressed privately by many others.

"The nation has reached the point where it must determine whether it will have less liquor and more food or more beer and less bread," Rees asserted.

"We want bread, not beer."

Rees said treasury department figures show liquor consumption was the highest in history last year, with a total of more than 165,000,000 gallons of distilled liquor and 87,622,421 barrels of beer produced.

Sure To Watch for Changes Estimating Your 1946 Tax

JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

...INGTON, March 2—Get ...ES if you're filing a ... of estimated income ...46

... in reducing 1946 in... made some changes in ... figuring the tax. This ...e now:

...t the same normal ex... as surtax exemptions: ... for yourself, depend... wife, whether or not she ..., and no matter how ...ttle the income, provid... not file separately.

... has income of $500 or ...course, she has to file a ...ther jointly with you, or ... If your wife files sep... you get neither normal ...tax exemptions for her.)

...ormal tax, 3 per cent, re... the same. All surtaxes are ... 3 per cent. Example:

The 1945 surtaxes started at 20 per cent on incomes up to $2,000 and rose by brackets to 91 per cent on the highest incomes.

Now the surtax on incomes up to $2,000 is 17 per cent, and is 3 percentage points less all the way up the line.

Another Deduction

And—this is new, too: When you figure your tax, deduct 5 per cent from it. What you have left then is the total tax you'll owe. Remember this:

Because the surtax has been cut 3 per cent—and the normal and surtax exemptions are the same—

Last of a Series

you won't have to bother figuring out your normal tax separately.

Just figure out your surtax by not reducing it 3 percentage points from last year. You get the same answer you'd get if you had figured the 3 per cent normal tax separately and then chopped 3 percentage points off your surtax.

The new system went into effect Jan. 1. Most wage-earners and salaried workers already have had tax withheld from them under the new reduced rate.

If your total 1946 income will be under $5,000 and you have to file an estimated declaration, find your total tax in the table on Form 1040-ES.

In this table you're allowed a deduction of about 10 per cent figured right into the table. So you don't have to claim a deduction.

You'll have to figure out your estimated declaration if your 1946 income will be $5,000 or over. (Note the exceptions to this in yesterday's story.)

People with income of $5,000 or more can automatically take—without itemizing—a deduction of $500 for expenses. If larger than $500, they can claim whatever it is. They'll have to prove it, when they make their final return in 1947 on 1946 taxes.

If you're in this group and tax is being withheld from you—but you have to file an estimate—you can figure how much tax will be withheld from you this way:

Multiply the amount regularly being withheld by the number of your pay periods. Here's an example of how to fill out Form 1040-ES:

Jones, married, one child, makes $160, a week. At 52 week, that's $8,320 a year. He gets paid monthly. The boss withholds $102 in taxes from him monthly. At 12 months, that's $1,224 in taxes withheld.

How It Works

But that $1,224 is not his total tax for the year. He has to find the total tax on his yearly income of $8,320. He goes about it this way:

Line 1 (on the back of Form 1040-ES) says to enter his net income there. His net income is his total income, $8,320, minus at least $500 for deductions. He writes the answer, $7,820, on line 1. That's his net income.

Line 2. That's the total of his three exemptions at $500 each for himself, wife, child. He writes $1,500 on Line 2.

Line 3. He subtracts $1,500 from his net income, $7,820, and on Line 3 writes: $6,320. It's this $6,320 to which he applies the tax.

Looking at the tax brackets on the bottom of the page, he finds his $6,320 is in the bracket between $5,000 and $8,000. The tax on it is $1,360, plus 30 per cent of his income over $6,000, or $320.

(Note the tax is 30 per cent. This is where, to save trouble, the government has combined the 3 per cent normal tax with the 27 per cent surtax, as suggested you do earlier in this story.)

He takes 30 per cent of that $320 over $6,000. It's $96. Adding the $96 to the $1,360 noted two paragraphs above, he gets a total tax: $1,456.

Line 4. He writes that total tax: $1,456.

5. He takes 5 per cent of that total, $1,456. Five per cent of that figure is $72.80. He writes that on Line 5.

Line 6. Subtracting the $72.80 from the total of $1,456, he writes on Line 6 what he has left: $1,383.20. This is the total estimated tax he'll owe in 1946 on his year's salary of $8,320.

Final Part of Form

Turning over Form 1040-ES, down at the bottom, he does the final job on his estimated tax.

Line 1. He writes his total estimated tax, $1,383.20. On Line 2 he writes the tax he figures his boss will withhold from him, $1,224.

Line 3. Subtracting the $1,224 tax to be withheld from the $1,383.20 full tax to be owed, he finds at year's end he'll owe $159.20. He writes that on Line 3.

This $159.20 is the part of his estimated tax he'll have to pay in four equal installments. The first, due March 15 when he turns in this declaration of estimated tax, is $39.80. He writes that figure on Line 7.

He'll have to turn in the same amount June 15, Sept. 15 and Jan. 15, 1947.

(Note: Jones didn't use Lines 4, 5 or 6. Somebody else might have, like someone entitled to a refund on 1945 taxes.)

Be sure—in making this return and payment on estimated tax—that you turn it in separately from your 1945 income tax return and final payment.

War Vets Get Autos in New Surplus Plan

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, March 4—War veterans got almost two-thirds of surplus Army motor vehicles sold in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia in the two-month period ending Feb. 15, Rowland D. Schell, associate regional director of the War Assets Corp., reported today as he announced a plan to take the headaches out of purchases.

He said ex-servicemen with certificates of need issued by the Smaller War Plants Corp. bought 1,208 of 1,983 vehicles sold at the six offices of the region.

Schell said the new sales procedure was as follows:

Men in charge of WAC offices will have numbered cards. They will count veterans attending the sale and place a corresponding number of cards in a box. Then, each veteran will be be invited to draw a card from the box, the number drawn determining the veteran's position in line.

After a tryout at the Indianapolis office, the new system will go into effect Thursday at offices in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Louisville, Ky., and Charleston, W. Va., Schell said.

CHARTER AIRPLANE SERVICE OFFERED

To Make Trips to Any Part of United States.

Charter service by airplane from Marion to any point in the United States is being offered by Stanley W. Baker of 124 East Center street, operating as the Baker Aviation Co. This is the first time in history that such a service has been offered for Marion and surrounding counties.

Mr. Baker now has one five-passenger Stinson Reliant aircraft in service at municipal airport. This month he expects to add a two-passenger Globe Swift to his service and next month a four-passenger Republic Seabee, an amphibious craft.

During his two years in the army air forces Mr. Baker trained as a flight instructor and was in charge of charter flights and student instruction. He is the authorized dealer for the Globe Swift and the Republic Seabee aircraft.

With his amphibious aircraft Mr. Baker pointed out he would be able to land passengers at Cleveland and other lake cities within easy reach of the downtown sections.

Before he enlisted in the air corps in 1942 Mr. Baker was in the chemical sales business in Upper Sandusky. After his discharge he worked at the Bucyrus airport as a flying instructor until May 1, 1945, when he came to the municipal airport as a flying instructor.

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—A subcommittee appointed by the Ohio strip mining commission has until August 1 to prepare recommendations to Gov. Frank J. Lausche and the legislature, but a rollcall of the committeemen indicates no drastic regulatory legislation will be advocated.

The members are Reps. Cliff Caryl (R-Union), who favors only moderate regulation of strip mine operations, and Richard Lindemann of Delphos, who advocates no regulation for the present. The third member, Sen. Clingan Jackson (D-Mahoning) urges comprehensive regulation.

The United States fed the entire French army of 300,000 men from January, 1943, to July, 1945.
